England's Villages Tour Itinerary & Highlights

The journey tours begins by visiting the Weald and Downland Open Air Museum in Sussex. This provides an opportunity not only to explore country life, but also serves as an excellent introduction to our tour. From across Sussex the 'museum' houses fifty traditional village buildings with historic domestic interiors. It also includes an array of interesting farm buildings and even a mediaeval shop. It vividly portrays the lives of the people in a east English village who lived and worked here over a 600- year period. Working buildings include a water mill and sawpit shed. We also take the chance to view domestic and craft demonstrations reflective of rural life over time.

The Villages of England small group tour also includes visits to numerous country villages and houses that have been used as TV and film sets, e.g. Lacock, Castle Combe, Port Isaac. Perhaps you'll recognise some of these locations from your favourite British dramas and period pieces! We also explore the haunting stones at Avebury, with its very own Neolithic World Heritage Site, and view the Tudor mansion and glorious gardens of Hever Castle, childhood home of Anne Boleyn. In addition, we enjoy taking in the magnificent and varied scenery of rural England, and learn about the fascinating styles of architecture that make English villages unique.

Fascinating finds from the 1930s archaeological excavations are on show at the museum housed in the grounds of Avebury Manor.

Today we will travel across the beautiful landscape of Dorset, known as 'Thomas Hardy' country, crossing several spots of particular natural beauty, including Cranbourne Chase. We will explore a number of the region's quintessential villages. Often referred to as the 'model' village, Milton Abbas is a superb example of white-washed, thatched-roofed cottages and houses the stunning Abbey Church while the village of Corfe Castle is built from grey Purbeck limestone. As well as exploring the village we will visit the ruins of Corfe Castle itself. Built by William the Conqueror, much of the castle was destroyed by Oliver Cromwell's forces. The castle's parapets offer stunning views of the village and surrounding landscape.

Heading west we make a special stop at the Church of St. Nicholas in the tiny Moreton village. Here in the local parish church, we can view the exquisite windows etched by the artist Sir Laurence Whistler. The churchyard houses the grave of T. E. Lawrence, better known as the famous Lawrence of Arabia.

Accommodation:

Best Western Plus Angel Hotel, Chippenham or similar

Day 5

Locations: Chippenham - Lacock - Fowey

Overview:

Near Avebury, famous Lacock is a planned medieval estate village now owned by the National Trust. As the layout and character of the village has changed little since the C15th it provides a fascinating picture of village life at that time including fine timber-framed houses, a C14th tithe barn and inns with passageways and stables, survivors from the era of wool trade. On arrival, Lacock may seem familiar – that is because it has served as the setting for many films and television series including the BBC's Pride and Prejudice, Wolf Hall and Cranford; and Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince.

In the afternoon we drive to Cornwall via Dartmoor. In the famous book, by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, The Hound of the Baskervilles, a message sent to Sir Henry Baskerville read, 'as you value your life or your reason, keep away from the moors'. Doyle painted an image of the moors as grim, forbidding and dangerous. It can be like that at times amongst the peat bogs when the famous mists descend but the moors are actually a fascinating landscape of tiny villages, farms, rolling hills, granite tors and wild ponies.

(B) (D)

Accommodation:

2 nights at The Cornwall Hotel or similar

Day 6

Locations: Fowey - Polperro - Mevagissey - Fowey

Overview:

Today we will explore the fishing village of Polperro. Polperro's Heritage Museum of Fishing and Smuggling will provide us with an insight into these two activities that so strongly shaped life in Cornwall's coastal villages. In fact, Polperro was the centre of the extensive Cornish smuggling industry. We then continue on to visit the Lost Gardens of Heligan, near the fishing village of Mevagissey, the gardens were unveiled in 1992 after decades of overgrowth. After extensive restoration works the gardens are now one of the most popular botanical gardens in the UK.

Remainder of the day is free to explore the beautiful local surroundings of Fowey. You may wish to walk its narrow high street, view the medieval buildings, walk to St. Catherine's Castle, visit the museum, take a pleasure boat around the port and harbour or a ferry across the harbour to Polruan

(B) (L)

Accommodation:

The Cornwall Hotel or similar

Day 7

Locations: Fowey - Port Isaac - Clovelly - Minehead

Overview:

Today we drive through the pretty scenery of Cornwall's west coast. The delightful coastal village of Port Isaac complete with fishing boats is the setting for the TV series, Doc Martin. After exploring its nooks and crannies we continue along the picturesque West Cornish coast to Clovelly, an official English Heritage site. Owing particularly to its location in a steep wooded cleft, this is one of Cornwall's prettiest villages, often appearing in lists of England's prettiest villages as well and is a popular tourist destination in the summer.

From Clovelly we drive across North Devon and Exmoor National Park to our accommodation at Dunster, a well-preserved medieval village owned by the National Trust. Exmoor is a high, bare plateau cut with wooded, steep valleys. Its picturesque coastline fronts the Bristol Channel. Though smaller than Dartmoor, Exmoor's tracts of wilderness are equally as forbidding.

(B)

Accommodation:

2 nights at Yarn Market Hotel or similar.

Day 8

Locations: Minehead

Overview:

We will explore a number of villages, some located within Exmoor National Park, that form part of the Holnicote Estate, owned by the National Trust. We will explore Lynmouth and the Lynmouth National Park Centre. The village of Allerford boasts a highly photographed packhorse bridge and a mill with pond and orchard. The cottages of pretty Bossington village are lime washed with traditional tall chimneys and bread ovens while the cottages at Lucombe are mostly built of cream-washed cob with uneven thatched roofs and wide eaves. In Dunster a castle towers over the cobblestoned main street, and the Yarn Market still stands, as does the ancient tithe barn. A gentle stroll leads to a packhorse bridge and beautiful scenery.

(B)

Accommodation:

Yarn Market Hotel or similar.

Day 9

Locations: Minehead - Castle Combe - Cirencester - Bibury - Rodborough

Overview:

Our drive to the Cotswolds takes us through medieval Castle Combe, often voted as England's most beautiful village that has been the location for many films, the most famous being Doctor Doolittle and more recently, War Horse. The village houses are all of typical Cotswold type, constructed in Cotswold stone with thick walls and roofs made from split natural stone tiles. The properties are many hundreds of years old and are listed as ancient monuments. The village is also a wildlife sanctuary and enjoys nature at its very best. Later in the afternoon there will be time to take a stroll amongst the gorgeous countryside around our accommodation.

(B) (D)

Accommodation:

2 nights at The Bear of Rodborough Hotel or similar

Day 10

Locations: Rodborough

Overview:

Our full-day excursion includes some of the most famous of the Cotswold villages and towns. Elegant C18th bridges cross the River Windrush at Bourton-on-the-Water, known as the 'Venice of the Cotswolds'. Enjoy the many attractions of the village and take a 2 km return walk to the 'perfect' village of Lower Slaughter, visiting the Old Mill Museum and taking in the beautiful views of the colourful cottage gardens and the River Eye.

Religion played a huge part in the lives of rural people. A short walk in Lower Oddington village takes us to St. Nicholas Church to view the impressive and somewhat macabre mediaeval doom paintings with their depictions of heaven and hell, designed to educate illiterate peasants. Once common, such wall paintings are rare today.

At Stow-on-the-Wold the market square that attests to the size of the sheep flocks once driven here for sale, a C14th market cross, the village green complete with stocks, and the church that is full of Civil War history as it housed 1 000 Royalist prisoners. Returning home via Moreton-in Marsh we view its numerous fine former coaching inns, the Curfew Tower and Market Hall.

(B)

Accommodation:

The Bear of Rodborough Hotel or similar

Day 11

Locations: Rodborough - Ashbourne - Tissington - Youlgreave - Buxton

Overview:

On our journey north we will stop in the market town of Ashbourne before heading into the heart of the Peak District National Park, England's first national park. The beautiful scenery of rolling farmlands, deep dales and ancient woodlands inspired many of Britain's writers including William Wordsworth, Agatha Christie, Charlotte Bronte and Jane Austen, who used the district as the setting for key Pride and Prejudice scenes.

We will explore the picturesque village of Tissington, one of England's few remaining estate villages, complete with its duck pond. The Fitzherbert family has owned Tissington Hall Estate since 1465. The Jacobean hall dating to 1609 is in the village centre.

Youlgreave's main street contains a number of traditional stone-built houses and shops. Its All Saints Church is regarded as one of the most impressive in Derbyshire. In both these villages we will see some of the wells made famous through the ancient practice of 'well dressing'.

(B) (D)

2 nights at Old Hall Hotel or similar

Then we head for the tiny village of Eyam, renowned for its heroic efforts to stop the Black Plague spreading from its inhabitants to other villages. Australian author Geraldine Brooks immortalised the villagers in her book, The Wonder Years. The village museum has an excellent exhibition while a short walk leads to places associated with the event.

The afternoon is spent at famous Chatsworth House and gardens by Capability Brown with both a guided tour and free time to absorb the exquisite furnishings and the art collection, one of Europe's best. There will be time to explore the magnificent garden and grounds. It is believed that Jane Austen based her idea of Pemberley, the home of Pride and Prejudice's Mr. Darcy, on Chatsworth House. The house was used as Pemberley in the 2005 film version of the book.

Day 18

Chiddingstone takes its name from the large sandstone outcrop in the village known as the 'Chiding Stone'. One of the prettiest villages in Kent, and perhaps England, Chiddingstone is a beautiful example of a Tudor one-street village. The housing is typical Kent style with half-timbered sides, gables and stone-hung red-tiled roofs. The National Trust bought the entire village in 1939 to ensure its preservation.

Surrounded by a moat, Hever Castle was the childhood home of Ann Boleyn. King Henry VIII courted her here. The beautiful tomb of Ann's father Thomas lies in St. Peter's Church nearby. The oldest part of the castle dates to 1270. In the 1400s Geoffrey Boleyn added a Tudor dwelling within the walls. The castle is an outstanding example of a Tudor mansion. William Waldorf Astor bought the castle in the 1920s and now it is owned by a private enterprise.

One of the most magnificent areas of the gardens is the Italian Garden, designed to display Astor's collection of Italian sculpture. Over 1000 men worked on its creation. Within four years a large area of classical and natural landscapes were constructed and planted. The colourful walled Rose Garden contains over 400 plants.

The remainder of the afternoon is free.
