20-Aug-2025

Join Odyssey Traveller on this Scottish Whisky Tour as we explore the stunning scenery and the remarkable history of Scotland, including the fabled Isle of Skye.

In this 19-day fully-escorted, small group tour, we visit the whisky distilleries of Cardhu, Speyside Cooperage, and Glenfiddich to learn about the Scottish whisky process and its importance to Scottish culture and economy. The whisky industry in Scotland directly employs 10,000 people, supporting 40,000 jobs across the United Kingdom, 7,000 of which are in rural areas where other jobs may be hard to find. This makes whisky the third biggest industry in Scotland, behind energy and financial services.

Scottish Whisky Tour Highlights

We go beyond whisky, which dates back to the Ancient Celts (they called it uisge beatha, “the water of life”, from which evolved the Anglicised form of the name), and experience the scenic delights and incredible history of the Scottish isles and Scottish Highlands from Edinburgh and Stirling to Glasgow and Perth. Edinburgh Castle, which dominates the skyline of the city, is only one of the many attractions on offer. Edinburgh Castle stands at one end of the Royal Mile, in itself an attraction, with its cobbled streets and wynds (minor streets) branching out of the main road, as well as countless historic buildings including the Parliament and St Giles Cathedral. We also visit the charming town of Grantown-on-Spey and visit Balmoral Castle, the Scottish holiday home to the Royal Family.

In Glasgow, we will explore the Gothic magnificence of Glasgow Cathedral and take an architectural tour along the Mackintosh Trail, which includes a visit to the famous Mackintosh House. The Mackintosh House is a meticulous reconstruction of the home of Charles Rennie Mackintosh and his wife, Margaret Macdonald Mackintosh. Mackintosh, an architect in the early 20th century, rebelled against the Victorian fascination with the past (evident in neo-Gothic architecture) and created designs that look striking and new even today. We also visit the beautiful islands of Mull and Iona.

English and Scottish, Protestants and Catholics, and men from the same clans fought on both sides. The new centre houses a fascinating exhibition. It was here that members of the MacDonald Clan were massacred in 1692. Through our visit to the Glencoe Visitor Centre and our drive along the glen, we will learn the story of the massacre. Stirling Castle, sitting directly above the town, crowns a 77 metre volcanic crag, and is a magnificent castle that stood at the heart of Scottish history for several centuries.
