Malta, Sicily, Sardinia and Corsica – Mediterranean Islands small group tour

08 Mar 20 to 01 Apr 20

Mediterranean Islands small group tour.

Odyssey’s Mediterranean islands small group tour of Malta, Sicily, Sardinia and Corsica guides you through the region’s culture and history. This fully escorted, 26 day, small group tour for seniors takes you on a fabulous journey around the Western Mediterranean. Beginning in Malta, our escorted tours head to Sicily, Sardinia, before finishing in Corsica, offering extraordinary insights into the history and culture of these Western Mediterranean Islands.
Malta, Sicily, Sardinia and Corsica:

For centuries these four unique islands held the keys to the Mediterranean. Over centuries, the Phoenicians, Carthaginians, Arabs, Normans, Spanish and French imprinted their distinct culture and architecture on the landscape of the islands. In the 19th century Malta secured the Mediterranean for Britain and helped make it the world’s major maritime power. Possession of Sicily brought similar benefits to Rome, as did Corsica for France. Today, Sicily and Sardinia are both very different autonomous regions of Italy. Corsica is a rather reluctant part of France, and Malta is one of the more recent independent members of the European Union. Today, however, their inhabitants still retain their own distinctive characteristics and ways of life.

Itinerary of our Small Group Tours Malta Sicily Sardinia Corsica:

Each of the four islands visited has its own character, shaped by its history. Odyssey’s small group educational tour compares and contrasts the culture, history, geography and peoples of these four unique islands. Throughout the tour you’ll experience a number of cultural and historical highlights, from prehistoric settlements to idyllic resort towns.

Malta

Our tour spends five days in Malta and Gozo. Here we visit the city of Rabat, where we explore the grotto of St. Paul. According to Christian tradition, St. Paul lived and preached in these catacombs during three months in Malta in 60 AD. More recently, Malta was ruled by the Knights of St John as a vassal of Sicily. The capital city, Valletta is UNESCO World Heritage listed as a testament to their influence. On a walking tour, we see the Grandmaster’s Palace and the Cathedral of St. John. On our last day in Malta, we take a ferry trip to Gozo, the largest of the islands of Malta. Gozo is home to the megalithic Ggantija temples of Xaghra, which are an important prehistoric heritage site.
Sicily

We then depart for Sicily. Our tour of Sicily begins with a walking tour of Noto, recognised as a UNESCO World Heritage Site for its grand baroque architecture. We then explore Syracuse, home to ancient Greek ruins and a well-preserved Roman ruins. For more archaeological sites, we then visit Agrigento, home to Greek temples. We also visit the Sicilian capital, Palermo, where we make a stop at the Arab-Norman Cappella Palatina, before making a daytrip to the famous cathedral of Monreale. Finally, we travel to Trapani, where we stay for two nights in a hotel. The streets of this medieval town by the sea remain largely untouched from the period of Arab and Norman rule. From Trapani, we make a day trip to the island of Mozia for an archaeological tour, and then head to Marsala for a wine tasting of its famous drop.

Sardinia

Following this, we fly to Cagliari in Sardinia. Sardinia is famous for its beautiful scenery: rocky cliffs, pristine beaches, and a rugged interior. Highlights of our tour of Sardinia include a visit to an nuragic archaeological site in Barumini (Su Nuraxi Di Barumini), the remains of an ancient civilisation that inhabited the island between 1800 and 500 BCE. We also take a walking tour of the medieval town of Alghero and make a trip to Olbia, strikingly located on the Sardinian coast. We also make a boat tour of Maddalena Island. This archipelago is famous for its white sandy beaches, emerald sea, and deserted lagoons.

Corsica

Finally, we get the ferry to Corsica. Though famous as the home of Napoleon Bonaparte, Corsica remains one of the least explored islands of the Mediterranean Sea. Our trip to this beautiful island begins on the east coast, in the charming coastal town of Porto Vecchio. From here we travel to the capital of Corsica, Ajaccio, which we use as a base to visit the Golfe de Porto, one of the most stunning pieces of coast in the entire Mediterranean.

Our destinations are home to some of the world’s great cuisines. From the English-inflected cuisine of Malta, through the 'Italian with a twist’ found in Sardinia and Sicily, to the unique cuisine of Corsica, we make sure that you are able to experience the local food culture. Each day, we eat breakfast, lunch, or dinner in a local restaurant. We also give you the opportunity to sample local wine and other delicacies.

Frequently Asked Questions about our Western Mediterranean Tour:

• How long does the ferry take to go from Malta to Sicily?

The boat trip from Malta to Sicily (Valletta to Pozzallo) takes only 1 hr and 45 minutes.

• How big is Sicily?

Sicily is the largest island in the Mediterranean, with 25,711 square kilometres of land. For comparison, that makes it slightly bigger than Wales (20,780 square kilometres) and slightly smaller than Massachusetts (27,340 square kilometres). It takes about 2.5 hours to get from one side of Sicily to another, but Odyssey Traveller tours choose to stay in several locations, so that you can see all the major (and less-known) sites without wasting too much time in the tour bus.

• How many participants are there in each group?

Our tours really are ‘small group tours’ – we generally take between 6-12 people, and never more than 18. There are many advantages to small group travel, including a close-knit group, a personal relationship with your guide, and more flexibility so that you can have an authentic experience of your destination. Read our information page for more information about what we offer, and take a look at our definitive guide to small group tours.

• When is the best time to visit?

While the Mediterranean islands are blessed with relatively mild weather year round, the best time to visit is in the spring and autumn. Summers can get unpleasantly hot and crowded, while winter winds can be disruptive. Reflecting this, our tours of the Western Mediterranean leave in September and March, so that you can enjoy warm and sunny days without the crowds.

Overview: This morning we enjoy a guided tour of Segesta, an archaeological site outside Palermo, where we'll see the Doric Temple and ancient theatre. We return to Trapani to take the funicular to the medieval eyrie of Erice, to enjoy its sweeping views of the valley and sea. We have lunch at a local restaurant then transfer to the airport for our flight to Cagliari in Sardinia and make our way to Assemini, one of Cagliari’s communes and check-in our hotel. The island of Sardinia is the second largest island of the Mediterranean but remains surprising unexplored. It has rugged mountainous interiors with stunning coastal scenery as well as quaint hilltop towns and pretty fishing ports. Sardinia has a rich Neolithic history and the island still boasts over 7,000 “nuraghi” fortified tower houses from a civilisation which lasted from 1800 to 500BC. Later the island was settled by the Phoenicians, the Romans, the Vandals, the Byzantines, and the Saracens. In the Middle Ages, the island was fought over by the Pisans and Genoese before falling to the Spanish in 1295. It briefly fell to the Austrians in 1713 before the Kingdom of Sardinia was created by Vittorio Amedeo of Savoy in 1718. Sardinia finally became part of the unified Italy in 1861. Many say that Sardinia offers an almost primeval landscape of rocks sculpted by the wind and sea. D.H Lawrence noted that the island was “left outside time and history.” (B,L)

Accommodation: 3 nights at the Hotel Grillo or similar.

Day 13

Locations: Assemini, Sardinia

Overview: This morning we enjoy a guided tour of Cagliari’s main sights, including the National Archaeological Museum. Lunch is at our leisure, along with free time to explore the city. Day 18

Locations: Olbia, Sardinia

Overview: Today we enjoy a full day touring northwest Sardinia. From Olbia we head firstly to Sassari, site of Sardinia’s first university and still a vibrant uni city. Here we have lunch individually, then continue on to Alghero, still protected by its medieval walls and towers. After a walking tour here we have free time in the afternoon and evening, and will make our own arrangements for dinner. (B)

Accommodation: Hotel Panorama or similar.

Day 19

Locations: Porto Vecchio, Corsica

Overview: This we transfer to the resort town of Santa Teresa di Gallura. Where catch the ferry across to the port of Bonifacio in Corsica. Following our arrival at the beautiful harbour town of Bonifacio we’ll enjoy a guided tour. In the afternoon we catch the scenic train to Porto Vecchio, a historic resort with remains of Genoese fortifications. Dinner tonight is at a local restaurant. The island of Corsica is the fourth largest island of the Mediterranean and combines a stunning juxtaposition of mountain and coastal scenery. In the Middle Ages, Corsica was a colony of Pisa and later of Genoa but enjoyed a brief period of independence in the 18th century under the revered leadership of Pasquale Paoli. Therefore, the “sale” of the island by the Genoese to Louis XV of France for 40 million francs in 1769 has been a source of resentment for the islanders ever since. Ironically, the island was the birthplace of perhaps history’s most famous Frenchman, Napoleon Bonaparte, and French and other visitors outnumber the locals approximately 6 to 1 in the busy periods of July and August. For all of this, Corsica remains one of the last unspoiled corners of the Mediterranean: poor, depopulated, beautiful, old-fashioned, and aloof. Despite its history of conflict with France it has now come to an agreement with its dominant, continental neighbour, although there is still some talk of independence from France among the Corsicans. (B,D)

Accommodation: Overnight at the Hotel Shegara or similar.
Day 20

Locations: Ajaccio, Corsica

Overview: Today we visit the towns of Sartene and Propriano, where we have some time to have lunch individually. Afterwards, en route to Ajaccio, we stop to visit Filitosa’s 4,000 year old, life-size stone warriors. We continue on to Ajaccio and a guided tour including the Palais Fesch Musee des Beaux Arts, then transfer to our hotel. Tonight we make our own arrangements for dinner. (B)

Accommodation: 2 nights at the Hotel Cala del Sole or similar.

Day 21

Locations: Ajaccio, Corsica

Overview: Today we visit the UNESCO listed Golfe de Porto, considered as one of the most beautiful bays in the Mediterranean. We’ll have free time to explore and make our own arrangements for lunch, then return to Ajaccio in the late afternoon. The remainder of the day is at leisure. (B)

Accommodation: Hotel Cala del Sole or similar.

Day 22

Locations: Calvi, Corsica

Overview: We have a little free time this morning before we taking the train to Corte, where we visit the Museum of Corsican Life. We make our own lunch arrangements, then travel on to the spectacular mountainside city of Calvi where we explore the city on a guided tour. (B)

Accommodation: Overnight at the Mariana Hotel or similar.

Day 23

Locations: Bastia, Corsica

Overview: Today we drive to Saint-Florent, stopping along the way in Cape Corse and explore the pretty villages there. In Saint-Florent we enjoy a guided tour of this lovely port town, we then continue on to Bastia. (B,D)

Accommodation: 2 nights at (TBC) Hotel or similar.
